Recommendations:

- * No treatment is typically necessary for cherry angiomas unless they are cosmetically bothersome.
- * If the patient desires removal, several options exist including laser treatment, electrocauterization, or surgical excision.
- * Patient education about the benign nature of the lesions is crucial to alleviate any anxiety.
- * Monitor for any changes in size, color, or shape of any of the lesions. While unlikely, any changes should be reported to a healthcare provider.
- * Referral to a dermatologist for evaluation and potential treatment if desired.
